DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371© of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

2. Claims 1-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by LaJoie et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,850,218).

Regarding claim 1, LaJoie et al (or "LaJoie" hereinafter) teach an interactive television program guide system implemented on user television equipment (col. 2/lines 1-7), comprising means for simultaneously displaying a program list that contains multiple program listings, that only contains program listings for programs that are currently being broadcast, and that has a highlight region for highlighting a given one of the program listings, i.e., all programs currently being broadcast are displayed on the program listing (Fig. 16 and col. 23/lines 44-61), a video window that contains an unobstructed view of a television program (col. 23/lines 56-59), and a detailed program description of the highlighted program listing (Fig. 16/item 378); means for allowing the user to position the highlight region among the program listings, i.e., the user uses remote keys for browsing or selecting a highlight cursor (Fig. 16/item 394 and Figs. 11-13 for the illustration of using remote keys); and means for automatically updating the detailed program description to correspond to the highlighted program listing whenever the highlight region is positioned on a new program listing while leaving the television program in the video window unchanged, i.e., LaJoie shows that the program description 378 is updated automatically to correspond to the highlighted program listing 394 as the user moves the highlighted cursor from CBS Sports 394 to New York Ballet (Figs. 16 to Fig. 17) while the current TV program in the video window is unchanged (Figs. 16 & 17/item 340 and col. 23/lines 56-59).

Art Unit: 2711

As for claim 2 and 3, the step of “wherein the means for synchronizing further comprises means for providing the user with an opportunity to select the highlighted program listing” as the user can move the highlighted cursor and selects the one he/she likes (Fig. 16 to Fig. 17 and col. 24/lines 34-51).

Concerning claims 4-5 and 7-8, the steps of “wherein the means for providing the user with an opportunity to select the highlighted program listing further comprises means for allowing the user to select the highlighted program listing with a remote control select key” and “wherein the means for synchronizing further comprises means for providing the user with the opportunity to synchronize the television program in the video window and the highlighted program listing using remote control channel up and down keys” are taught by LaJoie as well (Figs. 6-7, 9-13 as remote keys with Channel Up/Down keys 102, Arrow keys 128 and Select key 136 is used for function settings and selecting; and col. 24/lines 34-51).

As for claim 6, LaJoie also teaches “wherein the means for synchronizing further comprises means for allowing the user to change the channel for the television program that is displayed in the video window to an adjacent channel while simultaneously positioning the highlight region on top of the program listing for that channel in the program list” as LaJoie shows that when the user moves to the next channel on the program list, the highlight region is simultaneously shows up on top of the program listing (Fig. 17/item 361).

As for claim 9, LaJoie teaches “wherein the means for allowing the user to position the highlight region further comprises means for allowing the user to position the highlight region with remote control numeric keys” as LaJoie reveals the additional use of numeric keys in selecting PPV events (Fig. 28/item 538).

Concerning claim 10, the step of “further comprising means for providing the user with an opportunity to display an information screen containing an additional description of the highlighted program listing” as LaJoie shows the description of the program as the user highlights a preferred program in the program listing (col. 27/lines 33-50).

As for claim 11, LaJoie further teaches “comprising means for providing the user with an opportunity to return to normal television viewing from the simultaneously displayed program list, video window, and detailed program description” (col. 26/lines 23-26).

Art Unit: 2711

Regarding claim 12, LaJoie reveals that wherein the means for positioning the highlight region further comprises means for positioning the highlight region whenever the user presses channel keys (Fig. 6), the system further comprising means for changing the channel of the television program displayed in the video window to an adjacent channel whenever the user presses one of the channel keys, i.e., as the user uses the channel up/down keys to select the next adjacent channel KCBS 2, KCET 3 and KNBC 4 (Fig. 6); and means for displaying the program list with the highlight region repositioned at the top of the list on top of a program listing for the adjacent channel whenever the program listing for the adjacent channel does not appear on the program list when the user presses one of the channel keys to change channels, i.e., as the user selects channel 2 by pressing one of channel keys, the highlight region is displayed on top of the program listing (as illustrated in Fig. 16), and in the same manner, as the user selects channel 1 which is adjacent to channel 2, that channel with its highlight region will be displayed as same as mentioned to channel 2, but channel 1 does not appear on the program list (as illustrated by Fig. 16) as the user uses one of the channel keys to do it because the program guide is sorted and shown by time instead of the order of channels.

Regarding claims 13-24, these method claims are rejected for the same reasons given in the scope of system claims 1-12.

Conclusion

Art Unit: 2711

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Yen et al. (U.S. Patent No.6,028,599) disclose a database for use in method and apparatus for displaying television programs and related text.

Knee et al. (U.S. Patent No.5,589,892) disclose an electronic television program guide schedule system and method with data feed access.

Lawler et al. (U.S. Patent No.5,585,838) disclose a program time guide.
